

Don't Just Sue Them... (Solution)

Each clue has a more or less clear reference to the TV show Better Call Saul, but they can also be solved by relating them to other characters:

Howard Hamlin is a lawyer in the TV show, while Howard Schultz is the CEO of Starbucks. Maryland has a community named after New Mexico, the state where Better Call Saul is set. Charles McGill is another lawyer in the TV show (who is sensitive to electromagnetism), while King Charles (formerly Prince Charles) is the British monarch. Jimmy McGill changes his name to Saul Goodman in Better Call Saul, while the biblical Saul changes his name to (St.) Paul when becoming an Apostle. Guilford Court House is the place of a famous battle in the American Revolutionary War won by the British.

The answers to the clues are all major street names parallel to each other near Hopkins campus. The one major street missing in-between them is (North) Calvert Street, with Calvert being the puzzle solution.

1. (North) Howard (Street)
2. Maryland (Avenue)
3. Charles (Street)
4. St. Paul (Street)

North Calvert Street

5. Guilford (Avenue)
