MMORPG

MMORPG

Massively multiplayer online role-playing games (MMORPGs) are a combination of role-playing video games and massively multiplayer online games in which a very large number of players interact with one another within a world. This means that MMORPGs are online games where a player is able to play with other people all around the world.

Why does everyone keep calling Eve "spreadsheet simulator"? (self.Eve)

submitted 1 year ago by iamthelol1 Dutch East Querious Company

Most of the people who say this are noobs, but I don't know how noobs could get into economics in EVE so quickly. They also say that the combat is boring. I can confirm that the combat is in fact, not boring. It's just non twitch. You can say then that half of the MMOs out there have boring combat just because it is target based. Eve combat is actually thrilling and fast paced, even the early frigate PvP. So, where does the term "spreadsheet simulator" come from?

“These people’s actions, economists say, offer a treasure trove of information to study and analyze, primarily because each one of their decisions leaves a trail, creating a vast database that economists can only dream of in the real world. In effect, it creates a giant laboratory within which to study human behavior, dramatically scaling up the kind of classroom-based experimental economics that were pioneered by 2002 Nobel Prize winner Vernon Smith.”

TIME TO LET GO OF THE BEES!

The Statement.

"FCON is leaving the Imperium, and going out to conquer and live in a home of our own. We will remain blue to our friends in the Imperium, but we will no longer be a part of it." – Tarkinius

No response from Goonswarm officials yet.

As the skyteam and other FCON leadership entities prepare for their next move, the goons stay awkwardly silent. With no official statements made yet.

Vince Draken wishes FCON best of luck!

A rather 'unusual' appearance of the notorious legend 'Vince Draken' this morning (late USTZ evening). Draken expressed his wishes in the form of a Reddit post containing a leaked FCON forum post of Tarkinius addressing his members about the important decision leadership had made. Responses were mainly level headed and guarded, as the FCON alliance leader said 'he wishes to remain blue to the goons'

FCON member claims to have found Razor alliance!

Earlier today, an FCON line member claimed to have made what is arguably one of the most anticipated discoveries of current time. "It's a funny coincidence" the finder - who wishes to remain anonymous - said. He told the FCON Post that he found them hiding in one of his jump freighters as he was just about to depart for the last asset retrieval from goon space. FCON recruitment is likely to offer them asylum.

The Real Politics of a Virtual Society

The massive multiplayer online game EVE has its own elected officials, and they've created a political structure that is influential offline, too.

Drew Stephens/David Perry/EVE/Flickr/The Atlantic

A futuristic satellite or space station is shown in space, oriented vertically. The satellite has a complex, multi-tiered structure with various panels, antennas, and a central cylindrical component. It is emitting several bright blue laser beams from its sides. The background is a dark, star-filled space with a nebula-like glow in shades of green and orange at the top. The text "THANK YOU!" is overlaid in a white, stylized, blocky font across the center of the satellite.

THANK YOU!
